WE NOMINATE

Bayard Dodge, one of the great educators of the 20th Century and once described as "the most universally trusted representative of Western Civilization in the Near East," who over the Washington's Birthday Weekend was accorded the highest honor Princeton University can confer upon an alumnus—the Woodrow Wilson Award annually presented since 1957 to the graduate best exemplifying "Princeton in the Nation's Service." A member of the Class of 1909 (the third member of '09 to merit this prize in four years), the 72-year old Dodge, a resident of Alexander Street, has been identified with the Near East for nearly five decades, including a quarter-century as President of the American University, Beirut, Lebanon.

It was in June, 1923, ten years after he had received advanced degrees from Union Theological Seminary and Columbia, that Dodge was inaugurated as president of the largest American university overseas. Assembled in Beirut for the occasion were Jewish rabbis, Moslem clerics, Greek Orthodox priests, legislators and municipal officials, Druze and Arab princes, Kurdish chiefs, and students from all parts of the Near East as well as from Malaya, India, Ethiopia and South America. One chronicler reported: "It was the most unusual gathering ever assembled in the Near East."

In 1948—25 years later, and after he had been decorated by a half-dozen different nations—Dodge stepped down from the presidency of a university that had become a "laboratory of world understanding" where students of 40 countries learned to work together. A classic example of this understanding is offered in Dodge's own anecdote: "It was wartime and there was only one pair of crutches for two lame students. So they went around together, each with one arm on a crutch and the other around his friend's neck. One was a Jew from Palestine and the other an Arab."

Dodge's approach to life, that has inspired several honorary degrees, including Princeton (1928) and Yale (1949), was capsuled by Time Magazine in 1947. During World War I, when hard times had sharpened the Near East's indifference to death, a young Arab lay on the road, the apparent victim of a hit-and-run driver. Of all those who passed by, only a young American stopped. Dodge took one look, saw that there was life, picked him up and drove him to a hospital. Over the decades Dodge was to repeat the Good Samaritan Act many times and in many ways.

Since his so-called retirement in 1948, Dodge has continued to work for improved understanding between the Near East and West in a variety of posts. Only recently back from duty in Egypt as adviser to the American University at Cairo, and to U.S. authorities in the far reaches of the Mediterranean Basin, he has been a member of the Princeton Faculty and a catalyst for high-level East-West meetings. Characteristically, Dodge declined the $1,000 award "carried" by the Wilson Prize and asked to have the stipend transferred to the University's Program in Near Eastern Studies.

For understanding the need in world affairs for "hard work, sacrifice and faith;" for devoting his life to winning and keeping good will for this country in the turbulent Near East; for sensing all that Wilson meant in dedicating higher education to "the Nation's Service;" he is Town Topics' nominee for the Undergraduate Council agreed.

"You can't lay enough pavement to reduce materially the volume of traffic we've got today," Mr. Klar said. "Those four lanes would only supplement a loop or by-pass—not take the place of one."

Mayor Raymond F. Male said he thought that educating undergraduates in traffic safety was one way of making Washington Road safe for pedestrians, and Mr. Montgomery agreed. Chester R. Stroup, assistant superintendent of Borough Schools, and Raymond F. Mondone, Borough Police Chief, reported that accidents around Princeton High School have been materially reduced as a result of student education in safety.

Police Chief James Campbell of Princeton Township has pointed out that a guard is no longer needed at the University Place-College Road intersection because boys at Princeton Country Day School have been trained to walk their bikes across the street.

"I've been coming to Princeton for some time now to look over this Washington Road situation," said Mr. Klar, "and frankly, nothing has been done in all these years. Painting lines on the street won't do it—let's have an engineering solution."

The Safety Committee will meet soon in executive session and will then make its recommendations to Borough Council.

ROUND-UP

The Township Committee has announced the resignation of Calvin O. Schofield as its engineer, effective Tuesday. He will accept a position elsewhere and a successor will be named at a later date.

Last Thursday's rain (1.05 inches) and windstorms was marked by the lowest barometer reading at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Trenton in 18 years. The needle dipped to 28.90, causing gusts that occasionally reached 50 miles an hour. The torrential downpour caused temporary floods (see pictures, page 16) and the storm that hit the entire northeast raised howls with the Dartmouth basketball team's invasion of Princeton (see Sports, page 24.)

The thieving purse-snatcher is still at it, taking a handbag owned by Mrs. Henry W. Jeffers of Plainsboro from a table near the door in the home of Mrs. James P. Stewart, 18 College Road. Mrs. Jeffers lost $35 in cash but the purse and a Traveler's Check were found later on the lawn.

Police reports include two car fires extinguished, one under the hood of an automobile owned by Julian Bigelow, 86 Cedar Lane, and another in the front seat of a car belonging to Donald Raeler, parked in the lot near Princeton Hospital. Public Service pole on John Street was snapped off near the base Saturday night when teen-agers believed to be from Trenton struck it in a car stolen from a Trenton man attending a nearby dance.

Correction. In last week's issue of TOWN TOPICS, it was erroneously reported that Mrs. C. V. Kiser, 261 Hawthorne, spoke in favor of fluoridation at the Borough Board of Health meeting. The speaker was Mrs. A. L. Keiser, Jr., 170 Jefferson Road.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, February 23, 1950: James L. Briner, a Borough Councilman for 12 years, announced that he would not seek a fifth term. The Community Chest reported its final "take" as $100,000, some $6,000 short of its goal (and exactly half of what the United Community Fund set as its quota just a decade later)...a fire in the University's atom-smasher in Palmer Physical Laboratory did close to $500,000 damage, could be extinguished only by chemicals provided by the Lakehurst Naval Air Station—and resulted in the addition of foam fire-fighting equipment to the Princeton Fire Department.

Names on the Princeton Hospital birth list included sons to Mr. and Mrs. James R. Pietrino, 41 Moran Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kennedy, 237 John Street; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Donald, 43 Linden Lane; daughters to Mr. and Mrs. James Sayen, Mercer Street; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bradley, Valley Road; Mr. and Mrs. Jeter Isely, 38 Edwards Place...the Playhouse was featuring Clark Gable and Loretta Young in "Keys to the City," while the Garden was offering Princeton's Mel Ferrer in "Lost Boundaries."

Names now no longer on the Princeton business scene including Cushing Motors at 198 Witherspoon, selling Austins, Toto's Shoe Store at 72 Witherspoon, the Walker-Gordon Gate House on U. S. 1...a majority of New Jersey residents forecast correctly in the New Jersey Poll that Harry Truman would not only seek re-election in 1952 but would be beaten, and a general by the name of Dwight D. Eisenhower was their top nominee to turn the trick.

On the religious scene, the Rev. Lynn H. Corson was pastor of the Methodist Church, the Rev. Milton J. Nauss was first pastor of the newly-founded Lutheran Church of the Messiah and the Rev. Dr. Donald B. Aldrich was

Dean of the University Chapel ...in the sports picture, basketball captain Bernie Adams (later a member of the University administration) was the first recipient of the Pyne Prize "in absentia" when it was awarded to him while he was leading his team on an invasion of New Haven...and Princeton High School was paged to an easy victory over Hightstown by Buster Thomas and Bill Hogarty (who this week made news again—see page 21.)

TRUSTEES TO BE ELECTED

Contest Looms. For the first time in many years, there is widespread competition for membership on the Board of Trustees of Princeton Hospital. Members of the Hospital corporation meet next Monday to vote at the annual meeting at Merwick at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Anyone who contributed $5 or more to the Hospital Corporation in 1959 or who holds a life membership is eligible to cast a ballot. There are 152 members of the corporation. This is about 25 more than there were in 1958—most of them members of the Princeton Childbirth Education League who joined the Corporation so that they could vote for trustees.

There are eight candidates for the five three-year positions. Two of these candidates, Mrs. Dennis Flanagan, 133 Snowden Lane, and William Lemer, III, Kingston, are running for office at the request of the board of directors of the Childbirth League. The third candidate is Lawrence O. Houston, Jr., 72 Harriet Drive.

As chairman of the League's education committee, Mrs. Flanagan was responsible for the administration of pre-natal classes held at the YWCA. She is a medical journalist. Mrs. Flanagan has issued a statement in which she says that she is a candidate for Hospital trustee "because I believe that I can serve the hospital in a constructive way, particularly with its present plans for expansion and with the need to adopt the newest concepts for the care of patients as individuals."

Mr. Lemer has stated: "I have at heart the interests of the Hospital as a whole, and the community as a whole." Mr. Lemer's wife was a member of the board of directors of the Childbirth Education League but resigned her position when Mr. Lemer became a candidate for Hospital Trustee.

The Childbirth Education League, formed four years ago, would like to see the hospital revise its maternity rules to allow fathers in labor rooms and to permit "rooming-in"; that is, infants in the same room with their mothers.

"I do not regard myself only as a candidate on the maternity question," Mrs. Flanagan says in her statement. "This is only a part of the whole issue, which is a much larger one."

The League initiated classes in childbirth education, including exercises, which the Hospital later took over. The Hospital and the Visiting Nurse Association

PROOF POSITIVE — THIS COLUMN IS READ

Just when I was wondering, I received proof positive that at least three people read my ad last week.

I heard from a dictionary salesman, an old girl friend and a guy who claimed I owed him five bucks. If I hear from my draft board again, I'm quitting altogether.

I would like to announce our new policy regarding our weekend flower specials: due to their very great acceptance, I have been able to contact directly with Florida growers who will ship me gladioli and pom-poms weekly.

In addition, now, to the regular special we would ordinarily round up, we will ALWAYS have EIGHT gladioli for $1 or a bunch of pom-poms for 50¢. Henceforth we will have three specials running each weekend in a wide color range. Cash and carry only.

GIRL OF THE WEEK: When you're only four years old, birthdays come infrequently enough as it is. But when you're a leap year baby with a birthday once every four years, you've got a real problem. Kristin Klopfenstein was born February 29, 1956, and she will celebrate her first real birthday next Monday. (Actually, of course, there were some pretty exciting parties for Krissie in 1957, 1958 and 1959.) She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Klopfenstein, Princeton Line Road. (Staff Photo.)

The other candidates for the office of trustee are all incumbents: Mrs. Donald W. Griffin, Albridge C. Smith III, Edgar S. Smith, Richard G. Magill and John H. Wallace Jr.

MORE ON FLUORIDATION

PTA Reaffirms Support. Fluoridation remained a primary topic of discussion in various parts of the community this week: callers at Mayor Male's "open house" talked for and against it (see page 22); Town Topics asked its Question of the Week on the subject (page 15); and Dr. Benjamin Shimer, a former member of the U. S. Public Health Service, spoke out strongly in rebuttal to the points raised against it last week by Mark M. Jones (Mailbox, page 18.)

One of the original backers of the proposal, the Borough Elementary Schools Parent-Teacher Association, reiterated its eagerness to have the town's water fluoridated in a letter addressed to the Borough Board of Health. Pointing out that it first requested that such a step be made eight years ago, the PTA "noted with interest and enthusiasm" that the measure is again being actively considered.

Through its president, Mrs. John J. Fischer, the association wrote the Board of Health:

"Along with our national and state organizations, we have continued to study current and authoritative literature on the subject and remain strongly in favor of our original resolution." The executive board will in the near future poll its entire membership on the question and make the results public.

Meanwhile, an informal citizens' committee plans a meeting Thursday night to determine what steps should next be taken to accomplish fluoridation here. The matter was also scheduled to be discussed at this Wednesday's meeting of the Township Board of Health which, like its Borough counterpart, favors the proposal.

NO APARTMENTS JUST YET

Referred to Committee. Princeton University's hope for an early approval of its junior faculty apartments was deferred for at least a short time Monday night when the Township Zoning Board referred the University's request to Township Committee. The Board has the power to grant a variance or to recommend that Committee grant one, and where there is no hardship involved, as the Board feels is the case with the University, the Board can only recommend that Township Committee take the next step.

In the past nine months, the University has been in and out of Township Hall with its plans to construct an eight-story, 96-apartment building on the 98 acres of land it owns on the north side of Lake Carnegie between Alexander Street and Washington Road. Eventually, the University hopes to construct two other apartment buildings on the site.

The University plans two-bedroom apartments of 896 square feet each, and three-bedroom units containing 1,017 square feet.

would mean the property would continue as a tax-producing unit. The house and grounds will be maintained with the assistance of funds given by Mrs. Lowrie.

The stone residence was designed by the well-known American architect, John Notman, and, after the Stocktons, was used as a summer home by Paul Tulane, whose family moved to Princeton with other French Huguenot refugees in 1795. Mr. Tulane founded Tulane University in Louisiana.

Mrs. Lowrie's father, George A. Armour, acquired the property in 1895, and the house was enlarged during the 20th century for Mrs. Lowrie's family. Dr. and Mrs. Lowrie moved to Princeton in 1930, following his retirement as pastor of St. Paul's American Church in Rome.

Ordained to the Episcopal priesthood in 1896, Dr. Lowrie graduated from Princeton in 1890 and the Theological Seminary in 1893. He was an authority on the Danish philosopher and theologian, Soren Kierkegaard, and the author of 59 major articles and 38 books. Of the latter, 27 were published between 1930 and his death in 1959.

LICENSE LOST

For Careless Driving. Mrs. Rosemary Gault, 34, Cleveland Lane, lost her license for 30 days Tuesday night when convicted of careless driving before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr.

The case was heard in Princeton Township, with Magistrate Tams substituting for Magistrate James Hill of that municipality. Mrs. Gault was also fined $15.

Elvyn E. Keene, 33, Carter Road, was also charged with careless driving, to which he pleaded guilty. He paid $20.

A Nassau Estates resident, Mrs. Audry R. McMahon, 39, 2991 Princeton Pike, was convicted of speeding. She was fined $15 and notified that her license would be revoked for a period of time to be designated by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Work on lawns is one of the first opportunities for taking action that might bring on an early spring—and how many years has it been since we last had one?

The man advised a bit of caution in this respect: attackers of crabgrass might find themselves attacked by snowflakes on Thursday. Or if not snowflakes, rainflakes. He couldn't be sure, he admitted soggily, after having said last week that there was "no precipitation in sight," only to have the skies open Thursday night to produce some of the wettest weather in years.

The weekend? Clear, with temperatures averaging a shade above normal, he thinks.

Township Board of Education. Other officers and committee chairmen elected at Thursday's re-organization are:

Richard Pearson, vice-president and chairman of the public relations committee; A. Robert Trudell, instruction; Mrs. Walton W. Van Winkle, transportation; Leonard Hymelring, sites and buildings and grounds; John Donal, finance; and Mrs. Robert Sinkler, census.

SUPER-AGENDA PLANNED

For Township Committee. At a special meeting Monday night, members of Township Committee blocked out for the first time a "super-agenda" and assigned its items to Township Sub-Committees, with a definite priority stamped on each item.

The agenda consists of unfinished business, matters under study and policies which are to be laid down for the future. The Committeeman in charge of each Sub-Committee must now work on his particular agenda and make a report based on the priority assigned to each item.

For example, Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer's Sub-Committee has three items with number one priority: a fire prevention code, a possible ordinance on swimming pool fences and the question of a joint library. His group will also do a general traffic study, but this has a number three priority.

Committeeman John C. Mount heads a Sub-Committee assigned three items with number one priority: completion of the Master Plan, formation of an economic development committee and extension of the water lines. Mayor Fairman's sub-committee has also taken on three top priority items: the consolidation study, the financing of sewer trunk lines and planning a public relations program for Township Committee.

William Marvel heads a sub-committee whose top item is legislation for a joint recreation commission. Second on his agenda are the formation of this commission and the preparation of a master plan for park development. Third in priority is fluoridation, which must be acted on by the Board of Health before Township Committee can take any steps.

TELL ME MORE

Township Holds Briefings. Township residents who own property which will be affected by road changes under the Township master plan, have been visiting Township Hall on Saturdays as the guests of Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and members of the Planning Board.

The purpose of the informal gatherings is to explain the position of the Township in regard to the proposed roads, and to show property owners the "what" and "why" of road planning. If a property owner questions the layout of a road, the Township engineer explains that the road has to go this way in order to avoid a gully or to save the expense of slicing through a hill.

So far, there has been little opposition. Township officials believe that taxpayers appreciate first-hand information, and understand the need for laying out new roads and re-aligning old ones. It is hoped that an official map, pin-pointing these roads, will be ready for adoption by Township Committee this spring.

The film, which is based on the Dostoevski novel, stars Gerard Philippe and Edwige Feuilliere. It has English subtitles. The showing is sponsored by the French Club of Princeton University.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Never So Few (February 21-March 1) is an incredible confection that salvages what tiny interest it holds from the presence in the cast of Frank Sinatra, who does what he can with Milard Kaufman's inane screenplay. Others in the cast are Gina Lollobrigida, Peter Lawford, Steve McQueen, Richard Johnson, Paul Henreid and Brian Donlevy. The film is adapted from the novel by Tom T. Chamales.

Sinatra plays an American officer during World War II who, so far as we could tell, single-handedly whipped the Japanese in the Burmese campaign, defeating the warlords and his superior officers with equal elan. During his spare time, which seemingly includes every other hundred feet of film, he heads for metropolitan bistros, where, with the quick-breathing assistance of Miss Lollobrigida, he proves the efficacy of Yankee charm. On one of his visits to the front he uncovers a subversive plot by some of his supposed Chinese allies and thus makes the world safe for democracy and Peter Lawford. The picture includes no singing by Sinatra, which is too bad.

The Bramble Bush (March 2-8), if nothing else, gives you a lot for your money. To wit: 1) a small but seething New England town with carefully nurtured similarities to Peyton Place; 2) a dying man's wife who is in love with his physician, who in turn is the dying man's best friend; 3) a detailed mercy killing; 4) a sensual and wildly jealous nurse who is blackmailed into posing for indecent pictures; 5) the courtroom sequence apparently necessary in every other current Hollywood film; and 6) a lecherous newspaper editor. It's all in Technicolor, which lends sort of a festive air.

The stars are Richard Burton, Barbara Rush, Jack Carson and Angie Dickinson. Daniel Petrie directed. The issues raised by the romance between the doctor (Burton) and the wife (Miss Rush), together with the mercy-killing question, are important and competently introduced. But no intelligent answers or even real hints at a solution are forthcoming, and the film dissolves into absurdity in the melodramatic courtroom scene and the irrelevant plot complication of the blackmailing photographer, which seems to have been inserted for no other reason than to give Miss Dickinson an opportunity to appear in a towel. She performs this assignment, it must be admitted, with admirable skill.

THE GARDEN

The Young Have No Time (February 23-27) is evidence that teenagers in Denmark worry about and discuss sex just about the same as they do in the United States, except for the fact they discuss it in Danish. An interesting though somewhat overlong study of youthful problems, the film stars Ghita Norgy, Anne Werner Thomsen and Else Højgaard.

The Misses Norgy and Thomsen are school-chums and Miss Thomsen, an unhappy, experimental type, seems likely to lead Miss Norgy astray. When Miss Norgy resists her persuasions, Miss Thomsen tries to create a school scandal around her. Things work out happily when Miss Norgy falls in love with a trumpet-playing student who proves his sincerity by foregoing a chance to play with a touring band to remain with her. The Danish dialogue is translated in subtitles.

The Student Prince (February 29), a 1954 release, is a handsomely mounted operetta which should please devotees of the sugary and theatrical music of Sigmund Romberg, among whom we, regrettably, are not to be found. Featured performers are Edmund Purdom, Bette St. John and Ann Blyth. Purdom's musical numbers were dubbed by the late Mario Lanza.

Purdom is the son of Louis Calhoun, a European king who wants to marry him off to Miss St. John, the daughter of a neighboring monarch. Miss St. John is generally amenable, but feels Purdom's personality is too formal and cool for a really successful match. As a result, the prince is shipped away to Heidelberg U. with instructions to learn sociability. He attacks his studies with such vigor that before long he is romantically involved with Miss Blyth, the

IT'S NEW To Us

CAN'T PLUG IT IN?

Subscribe to New Service. Householders who have found that "do it yourself" often means "postpone it yourself," or even worse, "bungle it yourself," may now take advantage of a new service offered by Home Services and Repair, Inc., in Trenton. The number to call is Export 6-3561.

A subscription to this service is an investment in leisure and an assurance of a well-run house. For $5 a month, you receive the complete services of Home S. & R. Inc. any time you are in need.

If you are a housewife who doesn't know a fuse from a fritter, you may call for an electrician who will come to your house and install the fuse. If your toaster bows out and refuses to operate with a muffin, just put in a call.

At the other end of the appliance scale, the firm will send out specialists to see why your washer or dryer will do neither. They will also overhaul a room air-conditioner, or a balky TV set.

In fact, all the electrical and plumbing problems which could conceivably arise in any household can probably be solved by the staff at Home S. & R. Inc. We've mentioned electrical shorts, circuits of various kinds, plumbing problems are also covered under your $5 a month subscription. Balky drains, running toilets, faucets that drip down the drain—any of these problems will bring a repair specialist to your door.

The seven men who are associated with this organization have 97 years of experience among them. (And you know how television sets were in 1863!)

The TV and hi-fi specialist has been working on radio, television

For A Change

Devotees of Madras will undoubtedly like the new dark prints at Rosette Pennington and people who feel neutral about Madras may find that these prints stir them to considerably more excitement.

The print is a batik—or, at least a very good imitation of a batik—and it has been used for some tailored skirts and slacks which would slide nicely into a wardrobe built around dark cottons.

There is a straight skirt for $13, and a pair of tapered slacks for $15. Because of the nature of the print, these are one-of-a-kind and you'll find that cream, navy and maroon predominate. In the color schemes, and that floral effects are the rule in the designs.

and phonograph equipment for 15 years. The sewing-machine and vacuum cleaner man has been at it for 25 years; the automatic washer and dryer specialist began 18 years ago, and the refrigerator-air conditioner wizard has had 16 years of experience.

The $5 monthly fee covers everything except parts and these are available at manufacturers' suggested prices, no mark-ups. The company will, of course, give estimates if parts work is involved. All work is done on a bonded warranty basis.

In Italian. For warm days, the Italians—who have plenty of sun and warmth—send to Rosette Pennington a delightful starched linen two-piece dress with blooming tulips planted on its pocket. The dress is a simple one with no sleeves, a square neck and a moderately full skirt.

On the skirt are two pockets, 14 inches deep, with embroidered tulips in brilliant contrast to the background fabric. The dress (it's called "Tulipano") is natural, apple green or pale lavender. Over it you wear a rib-length overblouse with round neck, a saucy little notch in the hem, and short sleeves.

The Italians also do a shirt-waist dress in narrow and wide jacquard stripes of purple and white. The three-quarter sleeves have flaring French cuffs.

Japan produces a lovely pastel silk print, almost iridescent in its lightness. It appears in several modifications and in several styles. We liked it in a straight dress with a wide sash, attached to the side seams so that the ends can be tied as a full loose bow in

FRANK TALK: In a breather between battles in the Burmese campaign in World War II, American officer Frank Sinatra and sultry Gina Lollobrigida find time for love in "Never So Few." The CinemaScope, color drama will be featured through Tuesday at the Playhouse.

Front, or a full loose bow in back. Colors in the print are powder blue, pale pink and a light green.

Suit this year? Rosette Pennington has, in the Shopping Center store, a sheer wool two piece suit in black and white pin-check with black silk piping half an inch wide banding all its exposed edges. The jacket is snug, you'll be happy to hear. If you're tired of Chanel, and it has a round neck. Three big black buttons punctuate the front closing.

A three-piece beige herringbone (a very fine baby herring) is bound with braid at lapels and pockets. Jacket is short and without a button. It is lined with silk herringbone (bigger herring) just like the softly-bowed blouse. Also in navy or grey.

Lots of handsome, quiet dresses in navy, black or sunny beige. Here's one that's $35, with jewel neck, big patch pockets, three-quarter sleeves and a wide insert that takes a cummerbund. For the same price, buy a trim square-necked dress with small waist tucks to give skirt fullness.

The sweater dress appears in fancy dress; it's sand or light blue, with a straight sheath cut and matching satin banding. The cardigan has embroidery traced nerous its yoke and it hangs easily without buttons.

Set the Pace! A recent issue of House Beautiful magazine featured a Pace Setter house which embodies the latest ideas of various architects and interior decorators. Fabrics used in this house and pictured in the magazine, are now available at the Princeton Decorating Shop on Palmer Square in all kinds of opulent colors and textures for surprisingly low prices, in many instances.

The leitmotif of the house is a grille and the patterns of this grille-work have been translated into fabrics. For example, there is a linen for only $5.60 a yard, which has circles and fragments of circles repeated and interlocked to make a large, open pattern quite restful to the eye. It comes in natural linen with turquoise, mustard, olive or red design.

An entirely different fabric uses the same general motif on a much smaller scale. This is a polished damask cotton with four-inch stripes of turquoise, royal, gold, and purple embossed with dime-size circles and diamonds taken from the grille. (You may have it without the embossing if you prefer.)

Another cotton damask is woven of two colors. In the gold and lime, you have a pattern of squares in which the lime colored wool has been cut away at each corner to reveal the gold warp beneath. Also in grey and turquoise, purple and navy, two shades of orange.

Matching wallpapers will be along soon. Although how you pull away the woof of a wallpaper is something we cannot explain at the moment.

A hand-screened paper panel, done in Taiwan, would make a splendid hanging for a room in Princeton. These panels are 60 inches long and 22 or 30 inches wide, depending on which one you choose. The background, which is almost like a very wide mat, is a subdued geometric print.

The main background is black, olive or turquoise silkscreened.

Over it is a white design taken from a bit of antique screen, or perhaps from a rubbing made in a temple long since in ruins. The scenes are Oriental, of course: herons and bridges, boats and gnarled trees. Price is reasonable.

You have to have just the right taste and just the right wallet for this one: it's a pottery tureen, glazed but not shiny, and molded to represent a pyramid of lemon halves in a basket. There is a twist of lemon peel on top for a handle. We'll take an onion, thanks.

Matching this, more or less, is a celery plate done in the same dull-fired manner. Plate is five inches wide and eight inches long and it looks like stalks of celery. Nice for outdoors this summer. Price is reasonable.

BOY, 7, INJURED

On University Place, Bruce Barrie, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barrie, 24 Hibben Road, was injured last Thursday when struck by the side of a car as he was crossing University Place.

Borough Patrolman Theodore Lewis said that the youngster, a first-grade pupil at the Nassau Street School, stepped off the curb and was hit by a car driven by Raymond S. Van Dyke, 62, 112 W. Broad Street, Hopewell. No charges were placed against Mr. Van Dyke.

Bruce was taken to Princeton Hospital in the First Aid Unit ambulance after having been treated at the scene of the accident by Joseph W. Chasan of 106 Alexander Street. Mr. Chasan had a first aid kit in his car. The boy's injuries included a two-inch cut on his forehead and a possible concussion.

Swim Course Completed

The swimming program inaugurated this year at the Witherspoon School has been completed with a total of 91 percent of the students participating. The program, staged at the YM-YWCA pool, gave every student a chance to pass swimming tests. Those who could not swim were taught the fundamentals and those who were already swimmers were given instruction in the crawl, backstroke, racing dive, and diving.

The program was developed through the joint cooperation of the Princeton Borough Board of Education and the YM-YWCA, with the assistance of Irwin Weiss, elementary physical education instructor; Howard B. Waxwood, Jr., principal of Witherspoon School, and Chester R. Stroup, assistant superintendent of schools.

Each student received instruction over a four-week period. Students who had already passed the Advanced Junior Red Cross swimming tests and who held Junior Lifesaving Certificates served as assistant instructors. A total of 52 students passed the Beginners Red Cross tests and 60 students passed the Intermediate Red Cross tests.

Topic of Library Talks. A series of eight evening discussions to consider the "great decisions of 1960" will begin March 14 at 8:30 in the Princeton Public Library. "AN EXCELLENT ADDITION" is the way Paul Curran, manager of the King's Court restaurant, feels about the possibility of fluoridating Princeton's water supply. Numerous other Princetonians share Mr. Curran's opinion, but there are some dissenters. (Staff Photo)

Question: What is your opinion on the proposed fluoridation of Princeton's water supply?

Where asked: At the Public Library.

Paul Curran, 25 Madison Street, manager of King's Court restaurant: From everything I've read on it, I think it would be an excellent addition to the Princeton water system.

Mrs. Edmund Pinelli, 262 Mt. Lucas Road, housewife: I'm not in favor of it. I don't think enough is known about the after-effects of fluoridation. The long-range effects need to be studied more. I can see where TOWN TOPICS is all for it, but I think there are two sides to every story, certainly to such a controversial question as this. The issue of fluoridation should be put on a referendum — with both sides clearly stated, of course.

William Bartheld, 33 Humbert Street, maintenance man for RCA: Those that are involved in fluoridation probably know a lot more about it than we do. They wouldn't be studying it so much and putting in so much research on it if there weren't some value to it. I have nothing against it.

Mrs. H. K. Sander, Rosedale Road, housewife: I'm all for it. From the most reliable sources I've read, I believe that fluorides would actually reduce tooth decay. I have read the negative point of view, the so-called studies that fluorides have not proven beneficial in communities in which it was tried. I refer to a letter written to the editor of the New York Times by the vice-president of a standing organization against fluoridation. I feel his letter was inaccurate and slanted to confuse the issue, to dissuade the uninformed reader. To my knowledge, both the American Dental Association and the American Medical Association are strongly in favor of fluoridation and they are adequate authorities for me.

Arthur J. Klein, 171 Autumn Hill Road, investor: I don't believe fluoridation has been successfully proven. There are a lot of pros and cons but nothing is definite. I'm not too much in favor of it unless I hear to the contrary that it has been definitely proven successful.

Mrs. Edward Apgar, 117 Spruce Street, housewife: I'm emphatically in favor of it. I'm sure there is no question about it. The facts have been presented and known now for several years and I don't think we should hesitate any longer. It is something a town like Princeton should have.

Dr. Frank Johnson, Cherry Hill Road, physician: In general, I think fluoridation is a good idea. I feel that there is very little evidence that it does any harm and a great deal of evidence that it does help tooth decay.

Miss Ethel Boice, 46 Stanworth Lane, secretary: At the present time, I'm more opposed to it than I am for it. It is possible that fluoridation might do something for the teeth of young children which are just forming, but I'm not so sure it would be good for adults.

William Z. Abrams, 199 Nassau Street, dentist: Scientifically, fluoridation has been proven to my satisfaction and the people and organizations that I respect are in agreement with fluoridation. Legally and spiritually, it is another field which I as a dentist cannot discuss. In a democracy, if a person chooses not to drink fluoridated water, he can purchase bottled water for his own use.

Samuel G. Davidson, 85 Erdman Avenue, electrician: I think it's a good idea. I have children and I understand fluoridation is good for children's teeth. I also think it helps to purify the water.

Mrs. Enoch J. Durbin, Aqueduct Road, housewife: Well, I'm in favor of it. Since fluoridation has been proven worthwhile, I think the children should get the benefit.

William Geddes, 185 Jefferson Road, vice-president of Grover Lumber Co.: From what I've read, particularly about New York City, fluoridation would be an excellent idea.

Mrs. Martin Katz, 91 Snowden Lane, housewife: I'm very much in favor of it. I think it has been proven that fluoridation has no harmful effects. There is nothing about it that is harmful to your system. If it were up to a vote, I'd certainly be for it. I say "courage to the water company."

Mrs. Adolph R. Morgan, 152 Nassau Street, registered nurse: After doing some personal research on the subject, I think it would be a wonderful thing because fluoridation would prevent tooth decay in the children.

Albert W. Davis, 20 Witherspoon Street, food service manager: It comes down to who are you going to believe. It seems to me that the weight of expert opinion is on the side of fluoridation. More dentists and more scientists seem to agree than disagree that fluoridation is beneficial. I'm inclined to go along with their opinion.

Mrs. Philip W. Yeatman, 72 Library Place, housewife: As nearly as I can gather from conversation with dentists, it's an excellent idea.

Mrs. Marzie Lee, 123 John Street, maintenance man: Anything they add to the water which will improve it in any way is O.K. with me.

Mrs. Katherine Nogare, 15 Charlton Street, housewife: I'm very much in favor of it. I believe that fluoridation would be beneficial to future generations of Princeton.

Edwin G. Manser, 32 Stanworth Lane, dentist: I'm in favor of fluoridation. Every article I have read by any organized group such as the AMA, the ADA, U.S. Public Health Service, heart and cancer societies, etc., have all recommended the program. All the negative articles that I have read have been written by individuals and not by organized scientific groups.

Fluoridation Charges Reluted.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In his recent letter opposing fluoridation of Princeton's water supply, Mark M. Jones said that "a plausible case can be made in favor of it only if one ignores a great deal of available information."

He cites as his authority the report of an Ad Hoc Medical-Dental Committee which is without recognized standing in either the fields of medicine, dentistry or public health.

I feel that your readers should be reminded of the fact that fluoridation of public water supplies has been endorsed by the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, and by virtually every other recognized professional group concerned with the health of children and adults.

As laymen, few of us are equipped to make independent judgments about the merits of fluoridation. It is only reasonable that we should turn to qualified scientists for guidance. I know of no group with higher stature in the scientific community than the National Academy of Sciences.

Fluoridation has received the strong endorsement of the Committee on Dental Health, the Food and Nutrition Board, and the Ad Hoc Committee on Fluoridation of Water Supplies of the Division of Medical Sciences—all of which are committees of the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Detlev V. Bronk, President of the National Academy of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research has stated that he has "full confidence in the integrity, reliability and scientific competence of these reports."

The arguments against fluoridation offered by Mr. Jones have been raised many times and refuted by qualified medical and dental authorities. Summarized below are the undocumented charges made by Mr. Jones and the replies that have come from responsible scientists and medical authorities.

1. To the charge that fluoridation is not safe.

"The question of the public safety of fluoridation is non-existent from the viewpoint of medical science," says Robert A. Kehoe, M.D., Director of the Kettering Laboratory.

2. Regarding the toxicity of fluorides used in the recommended concentration:

"We know without question or doubt that one part per million fluoride in a water supply is absolutely safe, is beneficial, and is not productive of any undesirable systemic effect in man." Source: Nicholas C. Leone, M.D., MPH, Ph.G., Chief of Medical Investigation, National Institute of Dental Research.

3. Regarding charges that fluoridation, in the recommended amounts, results in ugly discoloration of the teeth, Thomas J. Hill, D.D.S., Chairman of the Council on Dental Research, American Dental Association states:

"...at one part per million there is no observable mottling of the teeth."

4. Regarding the effects of fluorides on chronic diseases. The Commission on Chronic Illness, concluded that:

"...research into the toxicology of fluorine compounds has revealed no definite evidence that continued consumption of drinking water containing fluorides at the level of 1 ppm is in any way harmful to the health of adults or those suffering from chronic illness."

5. The view that fluoridation represents compulsory "mass-medication" is without basis in fact. A report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Fluoridation of Water Supplies of the National Academy of Sciences states:

"Under normal conditions of living, fluorine is a trace element in human nutrition. Public water supplies vary in the amount of fluoride naturally present. Children dependent on supplies that are low in fluoride have a high dental caries attack rate as compared to children in communities having water supplies containing one part per million or more of fluoride."

This committee recommends: "That any community which includes a child population of sufficient size and which obtains its water supply from sources which are free from or are extremely low in fluorides, should consider the practicability and economic feasibility of adjusting the concentration to optimal levels."

I believe that the Borough Council, the Township Committee, and the Princeton Water Company owe it to the children of this community to find a practical solution to this problem without further delay.

BENJAMIN SHIMBERG

26 Cuyler Road

(Editor's Note: Dr. Shimberg is a former member of the staff of the Division of Public Health Education, U.S. Public Health Service. He is also an officer of the Princeton Council of Community Services which has gone on record as strongly favoring fluoridation.)

For a Safer Washington Road.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I was very sorry to read in Town Topics of another pedestrian-traffic fatality on Washington road. As a member of the community and the University who daily encounters the dangerous congestion on Washington Road, both as driver and a pedestrian, I would like to suggest that the only satisfactory long-run solution to the problem would be a grade separation between auto traffic and pedestrians.

The proposed by-pass routes to either end of Nassau Street would only be a temporary help, since traffic will continue to increase as the community grows. Also, the $53,000 expansion program of the University, part of it for buildings east of Washington Road, will cause pedestrian and bicycle cross traffic to increase.

At present, Washington Road passes over the crest of a ridge just in the area where pedestrian and bicycle cross traffic is heaviest. A permanent solution to the traffic safety problem could be obtained by depressing Washington Road into a cut through this ridge, and providing a number of overpasses for pedestrians and bicycle riders.

There would be other advantages, too. The University campus would be unified and its beauty increased. The grade on Washington Road would be decreased, reducing the noise from trucks and making it more passable when slippery.

Surely, the cost of a grade separation project is not too high a price to pay to save the life of perhaps one Princeton student a year for all the years to come. The problem was created by the rapid growth of Princeton. Much of this growth is due directly to the presence of the University, which makes this area a very desirable place in which to live and work.

The University is spending many millions to expand and improve its facilities, which will be of at least indirect benefit to the entire Princeton community. Can't the community, through action by its elected officials, restore a safe, quiet, and unified University campus by a grade separation of Washington Road?

are being exposed each Saturday at the YMCA. The situation is every bit as dangerous as the one on Washington Road.

The problem starts with the design of the "Y" building. You enter and leave the parking lot by means of two single lanes with a narrow island separating them. Unfortunately, this entrance and exit separates the building housing the pool from the main building, thereby creating a potential death trap for the children who move between the two buildings.

The problem is aggravated by the natural behavior of motorists and children. Parents block the single lanes while they discharge or pick up their children, while they hold conversations with them or their friends, or simply wait while a child attends to some business inside one of the buildings.

Some park in the drive and leave cars unattended, with motors running, for considerable periods. Meanwhile, traffic piles up behind the parked car and impatient motorists jockey for positions, backing up, making sudden turns, or using the wrong lane to enter or leave the parking area.

And as the motorists maneuver in the narrow drives, young boys, vigorous and excited, and just dismissed from a morning of fun, are racing about. On the past Saturday, about 15 of them were stationed on the island between the two buildings playing "chicken."

As the cars came in and out they would dash out or playfully push a friend in front of the cars. The more timid contented themselves with just touching the passing cars and calling for "ticks."

This was not a new game. Other versions of it have been going on since October.

Since we must live with the design that shows no appreciation of the natural behavior of motorists or children, I feel it is imperative that both the YMCA and the people using its facilities take precautions to reduce the hazards there. A few signs giving motorists some traffic instructions would help.

As parents, we could help by picking up and discharging our children only from the large parking area. Anyone using the "Y" surely has the stamina to walk the short distance to the entrance.

Finally, the YMCA could provide more careful supervision of the boys in its charge until they are called for by their parents. If a staff person is not available, then parents could be called upon to share this responsibility on a volunteer basis.

The YWCA has solved the problem. The girls pass from the main building to the pool and back only under supervision. They meet and are dismissed only at the main entrance, away from the tight incoming and outgoing traffic.

MUSIC In Princeton

FESTIVAL QUARTET PLAYS

Gives Top-Level Performance. Chamber works of the classical and romantic periods, running the full gamut of musical effects—from shimmering delicacy to powerful dramatic intensity—were heard in a concert by the Festival Quartet Monday evening in McCarter Theatre. Sponsored by Princeton University Concerts, this was the fifth program in the Series II group of concerts.

The Festival Quartet is comprised of Victor Babin, piano; Szymon Goldberg, violin; William Primrose, viola, and Nikolai Graudan, cello. Each gentleman is a renowned concert artist in his own right, but each has also brought to the ensemble sensitivity and sympathetic, intuitive "feel" of the other instrumental parts—qualities essential to top-level performance of chamber music.

Of the three works on the program, it would indeed be difficult to cite the one best performed; each was given a complete and satisfying presentation. It seemed, too, that each of the three works had been studied in minute detail by the artists, in order to enhance certain passages or musical qualities within them.

The last movement, of the Mozart Piano Quartet, for example, was not merely light and gay—it was like champagne, sparkling and bubbling over with rollicking good humor. Therein lies the difference between a run-of-the-mill performance of a given work and a genuine identification of the artist's sensitivity with the spirit of the composer, through complete absorption in the musical and emotional detail inherent in that work.

The Faure G Minor Piano Quartet bears the stylistic earmarks of the late romantic French composers, along with traces of the new impressionism championed by Claude Debussy, a later contemporary of Faure. A certain sadness permeates the work—not the deep, fatalistic brooding so characteristic of the music of Cesar Franck, but rather a longing poignancy—which is woven even amidst Faure's lyrical, frequently ethereal and luminous melodic lines. There is much spine-tingling richness in this music, an intangible quality which immediately identifies it as being unmistakably French.

The Brahms G Minor Quartet, a basic work in standard chamber music repertoire, was given a meaty performance—full of gusto and charged with Germanic drive. The artists' dynamic control in the Intermezzo was especially rewarding to hear, and the final Hungarian dance movement evoked excited applause from the audience.

In seeing the Festival Quartet on stage, it is interesting to note that they seem to play in a relaxed manner, without the slightest exertion. This is especially true in the case of Mr. Babin, an extremely tall, broad-shouldered man, who, when observed from the right side of the auditorium, would appear not to be playing the piano at all, but merely sitting at a keyboard, so slight are the motions of his shoulders and upper arms.

However, the deep concentration and intensity with which they play completely belie this impression, for underneath their relaxed stage presence, each of these men is expending an enormous amount of physical, mental, and emotional energy. Each artist played with fine tone; Mr. Primrose, especially, had a consistently beautiful sound throughout the evening. It is always a pleasure to hear any one of these musicians; to hear the Festival Quartet on Monday evening increased that pleasure fourfold.

STUDENT PIANIST TO PLAY

In "Friends" Concert. David Del Tredici, graduate student in the Department of Music, Princeton, will appear in recital Sunday at 3:30 in Clio Hall auditorium on the University campus. The Friends of Music will sponsor the recital, which will be open to the public without charge.

A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Mr. Del Tredici studies piano with Bernhard Abramowitsch and has played several times with the San Francisco Symphony under Arthur Fiedler and Enrique Jordi. He has received several awards including the $5,000 Kimber Award for instrumental music in 1955.

For his Princeton recital, Mr. Del Tredici has chosen Bartok's suite, "Out of Doors;" the Beethoven sonata in E Major, opus 109; three Etudes by the young contemporary composer, Robert Help; and Schumann's "Davidbuendleraenze," opus 6, a group of 18 piano pieces rarely performed in recital.

MUSIC AT CHURCH

Chapenter Mass to Be Sung. Members of the Princeton Methodist Church Choir, accompanied by a string orchestra, will perform a mass by Marc-Antoine Charpentier at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday. The work will be performed from manuscript copies transcribed and edited by Dr. H. Wiley Hitchcock of the University of Michigan.

Thomas Hibliss will conduct and LaVerne Jackson will play the organ. Soloists for Sunday's mass will be Thelma Young, Muriel Long, Barbara Hibliss, Robert Simpson and Fadoua Shehadi.

IT'S HERE! A Wonderful New HOSPITALIZATION Policy That Pays NURSING HOME Benefits, Too!

The Nursing Home benefit is only one reason why our new Protector Hospital Policy is so very special. This plan helps pay hospital room and board from $10 to $25 a day. (You select the amount.) It has a benefit for other hospital expenses such as lab, drugs, anesthetic ... a surgical fee benefit which includes dental surgery ... a first aid benefit ... special benefits for out-patient treatment ... payment for doctor's calls in a hospital. Then, when you're hospitalized and then transferred to a nursing home to convalesce, this unusual policy helps pay your nursing home fees, too!

The Protector, incidentally, pays hospital room and board for an UNLIMITED number of days. Not 30 days—not 90 days—UNLIMITED DAYS—as long as you require hospital care.

Report from THE MAYOR

Pro and Con. The announcement that the Borough Board of Health contemplates asking for an official endorsement of fluoridation of the Princeton water supply has encouraged a number of citizens and groups to set forth their views — pro and con — on this policy question.

The Council will have on its agenda for the March meeting a letter from Dr. E. Frederick Laschever, president of the Board of Health, requesting a resolution by Mayor and Council favoring fluoridation. Meanwhile, it will be most helpful to members of the governing body to hear the views of interested citizens.

Yardstick For Health. Mayors, municipal attorneys and local public health officials throughout New Jersey have just received "A Yardstick for Community Health Services" from the state health department. The Public Health Council has also distributed copies of a new publication entitled "Recognized Public Health Activities and Minimum Standards of Performance for Local Health Departments in New Jersey."

By law, these standards are to be met by April 1, 1961. Not all of the services need to be provided by the board of health, but they must be provided by a recognized health agency, either official or voluntary.

The Borough Board of Health has been engaged for more than two years in a careful review of its program and should be in a good position to evaluate our needs in the light of the 1961 deadline. The 1960 borough budget reflects one major addition — a full-time sanitary inspector — so that a full inspection schedule can be maintained while freeing the health officer for other important duties.

In The Mail. Princeton is host continuously to visitors from around the world. Likewise, the Princeton Mayor's mail contains many letters from far away places.

Some need translation — and local linguists are always most helpful. Often, even when translated, the requests are difficult to handle.

This week's example: a letter from an elderly lady in Germany who is in possession of the writing table and the chair used by Albert Einstein in his Berlin days prior to 1933. The writer says that she has "decided to pass on the writing table to admirers of this great teacher, so that I will know it is in good hands after my death."

She adds that "I may assume that your city might be interested in its purchase, since after his emigration Albert Einstein selected your city for his second home." It may be that someone will suggest a reply with a solution that will not involve the borough's already strained budget.

"Tell It To The Mayor!" The regular weekly open house will be held on Friday, February 28, and Friday, March 4, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal sessions.

Last week's visitors included some with strong views on fluoridation and on the problems of safety on Washington Road and Nassau Street. Also on the Mayor's schedule last week: a performance as a "model" for the March of Dimes benefit fashion show; and another in the constructive study sessions of the planning board — this time with the technical help and leadership of David Fellish on the subject of the economy of Princeton. At the request of board chairman Martin Beck, the consultant planners will prepare a checklist of the tough questions on which will rest the basic decisions involved in the overhaul of the borough's master plan.

A HOUSE OF GLASS

Nelson Co. in New Location. The Nelson Glass Company, which began ten years ago as a one-man, single-pane operation, has now expanded into a new building with 2,300 square feet of space, plenty of room for a crew of four men and a showroom for several new lines of merchandise. The new structure is at 47 Spring Street, in the side yard of the house at 45 and attached to the house.

Robert Nelson, founder and owner of the shop, designed the new building to accommodate such difficult and bulky items as automobile windshields, tall leaves of plate glass, and large station wagons whose windows need replacement.

In the front of the new shop, directly off the street and separated from it by, appropriately enough, a large expanse of plate glass, Mr. Nelson has a showroom for his new collection of mirrors. These include smoked glass, antique finishes, mirrors with borders and mirrors without, a complete and sound collection. Here also are Alron combination storm windows and screens and Hasco Jalousies—both of them new lines which Nelson is now able to carry because of the additional space in the new building.

Behind the show-room and the office, is a large workroom with a balcony at one end to hold the special racks which Mr. Nelson has designed for windshields (over 100 different kinds in stock). Cars and trucks in need of glass repair drive in from Spring Street and out through the back door into Lincoln Court.

In this work room, 16 feet high at the rear, are the tall, thin filling "cabinets" which hold big leaves of plate glass and the carpet-covered roller bench, some 12 feet square, on which glass is measured and cut. A giant lift carries special glass to and from one of the three Nelson trucks and grasps the 50-gallon drums of waste glass for transportation to the dump.

When Mr. Nelson started his business in 1949, he rented quarters which were one-third the size of his new building. He did all the work himself, including driving his one truck. Mr. Nelson, who also owns the house next door at 45 Spring lives at 158 Spruce Street.

EXECUTIVE FIRM MOVES

Now At 71 Palmer Sq. West. American Business Executives, Inc., which has been located at 32 Nassau Street for the past year, has now moved to larger offices at 71 Palmer Square West. The firm provides research, appraisal and recommendation of top management personnel to business and industry, and Wiley H. Critz, president, said the new location "affords more adequate accommodations for the consultation and personal interviews that are such an important part of the organization's operations."

The new offices, Mr. Critz said, "reflect the belief of American Business Executives that an informal atmosphere is conducive to the relaxed but thorough exploration of job requirements and the qualifications of prospective candidates." American Business Executives has the corporation as its client and the service is confidential, protecting both the client company and any individual who is considered.

Mr. Critz is former assistant dean of the Princeton University Chapel and was also dean of chapel at Mount Holyoke College. Other officers of American Business Executives, Inc., are Philip H. Williams, executive vice president, and Dwight A. Shaw, secretary-treasurer.

Clement V. Conole, chairman of the board of the Whiting Paper Co. and formerly executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia, is chairman of the board of American Business Executives, Inc. Board members are Howard W. Stepp, registrar of Princeton University, and Fred M. Blaicher, president of the Princeton Municipal Improvement Corp.

NEW STORE FRONT ON SPRING: Drive right in (but not through this window) if you want service from the Nelson Glass Company, 47 Spring Street. Wide doors to the right have been designed to accommodate everything from a small foreign car to a big truck with windshield problems. Pedestrian customers in search of mirrors or storm windows enter through the front door. Robert Nelson, owner, stands at the right.

FREE CHICKEN!

On the First Day. Free chicken will be passed around to customers who visit the new Sunny-Hunny shop, 20 Nassau Street, on its "opening day" this Saturday. "Miss Sunny-Hunny" will cut the ribbon for opening-day ceremonies.

The new shop is a take-out establishment featuring chicken, shrimp and sea filets, and French fried potatoes. There are three choices in the chicken department.

A special cooker prepares the chicken in six minutes, but the bird has undergone a ten-hour advance preparation. The cooker cooks the chicken under 35 pounds of pressure per square inch, thereby retaining, so it is said, the natural juices of the fowl.

ART AND BOOK SHOP SOLD

On Spring Street. The Wither-spoon Art and Book Shop at 6 Spring Street has changed hands. Its new owners, Mrs. John Hemphill, 274 Mountain Avenue, and Mrs. Bradford B. Locke, Province Line Road, will take over on Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Etta Hoadley, former owner of the shop, started out in 1951 in a small room in the Branch Building (now the Benson Building) on Wither-spoon Street, naming her shop not for its location but in honor of John Wither-spoon, an early president of Princeton University.

In the intervening years, Mrs. Hoadley has moved her books three times. She has specialized in addition, they plan to expand orders and the new owners of the shop will carry on her policies, in Princetoniana and in special collection of old prints and the line of children's books.

BELLOWS RETURN

From Europeao Buying Trip. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bellows have completed an extensive buying trip in six European countries, whose imports will be featured in their store at 210 Nassau Street throughout the year. A variety of clothing for women and children, as well as boutique items, will be included.

Christening dresses and other infants' clothing are among the French imports, which will also comprise women's apparel ranging from beachwear to a limited group of couturier dresses. Wools from England and Scotland will appear in clothing for boys, girls and women. Other countries represented in the collection will be Italy, Switzerland and Scandinavia.

THREE-WAY TIE COMING?
In Scrambled Ivy Race, at a time when Dartmouth's defending champions had been expected to nail down their second straight championship in the Ivy Basketball League, the race is instead wrapped up in a somewhat astounding deadlock. Even more amazing to contemplate is the possibility of a three-way tie at the finish among the Indians, Princeton and Brown.

As the surprising Tigers head north for contests with Harvard Friday and Dartmouth Saturday, the likelihood that a triple deadlock might develop is more than a mere mathematical chance. Should it occur, it would duplicate the tie that occurred five years ago involving Princeton, Columbia and Penn. After the Lions topped the Quakers in a playoff here, Cappy Cappon's forces rocked Columbia at New Brunswick, 86 to 69.

It figures this way: Princeton to beat Harvard at Cambridge, lose to Dartmouth at Hanover and a week later defeat Columbia and Cornell in Dillon Gym. The Tigers appear capable of taking these three of their last four, since they handled Harvard with such ease last weekend and have now won 13 Ivy games in a row at home, a factor which makes them a favorite in their last two contests of the season.

Dartmouth to top Penn and Princeton in Hanover this weekend, defeat last-place Yale at New Haven on March 4 but lose to Brown at Providence the following night. The unpredictable Bruins edged the Green at Hanover in an overtime contest earlier this month and may finally have reached the potential expected of them when pre-season ratings tabbed them as the Indians' chief challenger.

Brown to win all four of its remaining games. A ten-point victory over Cornell at Providence last weekend, the Rhode Island quintet LEAD REGAINED: Pete Campbell tossed in a two-night total of 58 points last weekend to raise his mark to 217 and regain the individual Ivy scoring lead.

let may not pull off another triumph over the Ithacans on the road but if it manages this Friday night, could well sweep its remaining games. These include Columbia at New York, and Harvard and Dartmouth at Providence, the final two on March 4 and 5 when the season comes to a close.

Cornell could conceivably wind up in a playoff (which would eliminate Brown) but the Red has the roughest finish of the four top teams. After entertaining Brown and Yale this weekend, the Ithacans play Penn in the Palestra and Princeton here, a couple of tough road games. To create a three-way tie, either Brown or Cornell must win all four of its remaining games while Princeton and Dartmouth finish at a three-for-four clip.

Tigers Out of Place. Even if Princeton does no better than win half its remaining contests, the resultant 9-5 record will be far better than the Tigers should have achieved. Harder hit by graduation than any other team in the circuit, the Orange and Black won only two of its first eight games, one of the first half dozen defeats including the Ivy opener to Penn at Philadelphia.

From that cellar berth, the quintet that Jim Brangan captains so ably has battled its way to a 7-3 record that is good enough for a first-place tie with a Dartmouth quintet which can field four of the five starters who won the title last March. This despite the loss for academic reasons of Al Kaemmerlen, a 6-4 sophomore whose play as a regular on the Tiger quintet had been paralleled by a five-game winning streak.

Dartmouth's troubles can probably be summed up largely in one sentence: Rudy LaRusso, the Indians' fine center who is good enough to be playing with the Minneapolis Lakers in his first season out of college, left a bigger gap than had been anticipated.

George Ramming, who replaced him at center, not only completely lacks LaRusso's ability to make the key play but occasionally has an extremely poor night. Against Princeton, for example, he was held to eight points, missed the amazing total of nine free throws and wound up being tossed out of the contest for a flagrant tripping foul on Pete Campbell.

Indians' Trip Here Was Rugged. Sight must not be lost of the fact that Dartmouth was at an extreme disadvantage in its contests with Princeton and Penn because of an unbelievable sequence of events marring its trip here from Hanover. Without exaggeration, the entire Dartmouth squad was lucky to escape with its lives—and the amount of sleep its players lost inevitably affected their stamina in back-to-back road contests.

month contingent flew to New York, where high winds and rain prevented a landing at any airport. Heading back to Boston, the plane was waved off there, turning due north for Concord, N.H.

The pilot made three passes over the Concord airport in a wind-whipped blizzard, checked his gas supply and announced that the fourth effort at landing would have to do the trick. Fortunately, it did.

By the time the last member of the squad was bedded down in a Concord hotel, it was nearly 3 a.m. Up at 6:30 in hopes of catching a train south, the weary crew found that the switches were all frozen and none was running. A bus to the Route 128 station outside Boston and a train to New York were followed by another bus trip to Princeton, with the game starting 65 minutes late.

Tigers Win after 63-All Tie. Twice in the first half, Dartmouth appeared to have the Tiger roasting on the spit of an 11-point lead. The home forces stuck with it, however, and narrowed the margin to 36-33 at the intermission.

It was not until Don Swan dropped in an underhand layup with less than five minutes left that Princeton drew even at 56-all. The Nassau quintet earned a two-point lead in the remaining time, was caught at 63-all and then nearly dug its own grave when it failed to get off a shot in the final 53 seconds, despite the fact that it was in possession the entire time.

Overtime followed, and while the visitors scored first, Princeton soon broke the game open with good rebounding and accurate shooting. The Tigers dunked 13 points in the extra five-minute session, nine of them by Pete Campbell. He finished with a 32-point output for his top performance of a standout sophomore career.

Campbell also sparked the 71-60 triumph over Harvard on Friday with 26 points, increasing his ten-game Ivy total to 217 and regaining the individual lead in the race. Yale's Dan McFadden (206) and Penn's Bob Mikvy (193) are his closest pursuers.

Harvard's lackluster performance left the Dillon Gym crowd wondering how it had ever managed to win five Ivy games in a row. The visitors failed to get a field goal in the first five minutes and had only 17 points (to 30 for Princeton) at half-time.

DON SWAN

Princeton Forward

A player who last season was virtually a non-paying spectator, this winter is a major reason for the surprising surge credited to Princeton's basketball team. Last year, Don Swan took part in less than half of the Tigers' games, and saw action for a total of only 60 minutes—about six percent of the overall playing time.

This winter, he was tabbed for a starting assignment largely on potential—membership on the Hamden (Conn.) high school team that won the state championship in his senior year and a good season here as a freshman. Obviously, Don Swan had a lot to learn, but he learned it quickly.

As early as the ninth game on the schedule this winter, he turned in a topflight performance to help Princeton beat Yale at New Haven, scoring 22 points and rebounding well. It is in this latter department that the 6-3 junior has been so valuable in the Tigers' rise to a wholly unexpected first-place tie with Dartmouth.

In the twin Princeton victories last weekend, Swan was matched on a rotating basis against four players on both teams who ranged from one to four inches taller than he is. Yet he completely dominated the rebounding statistics with a two-night total of 40, time and again giving his team vital possession that paved the way to victory.

Against Dartmouth's veteran aggregation, Swan pulled down 17 rebounds, while the best the losing Indians could collect was ten credited to 6-4 Gary Vandeweghe. In the Harvard game, the Crimson had three players taller than Swan on the court most of the time, yet the Princetonian came up with his season's high of 23.

In the extra-period victory against the Indians, Don tossed in 19 points, and although he doesn't shoot often, he has averaged about 12 per game this season. His shooting average from the floor is just under 50 percent, tops this season at Princeton and a high figure nationally. Swan is also unusually accurate from the foul line, where he has converted close to three-fourths of his free throws.

With Al Kaemmerlein, second in rebounding, benched by ineligibility, the burden of activity in this vital department will fall largely on Don Swan's shoulders in the final ten days of the campaign. Because he has come so far in such a relatively short period of time, there's every reason to believe he'll maintain the fine pace he's set in the decisive four games that lie ahead.

better than 20 midway through the final period, Capon finishing with a reserve five for the first time in weeks. A factor in both Princeton victories (in addition to the usually fine play of Brangan and Don Swan) was the work of Tom Adams. The 6-4 junior got off the bench on both nights to contribute Larry Brennan and contribute both points and rebounds in welcome fashion.

HOCKEY TEAM BEATEN

In Close Contests. Three consecutive defeats by a single goal have brought considerable disappointment to the hockey team's season, with the outcome of this Wednesday's game against Yale determining whether the Tigers can finish above the .500 mark. Regardless of that score, it is unlikely that they can better last year's fifth-place finish in the six-team Ivy circuit.

After Yale topped the Orange and Black at New Haven, 2-1, R.P.I. racked up a similar decision here last Wednesday. The able visitors ended a deadlock that had lasted 55 minutes with two goals before Princeton averted a whitewash in the final 90 seconds.

Captain John McBride got the losers' goal, breaking his own all-time scoring record with 45 points. His achievement has been one of the few bright spots in hockey since the mid-term break.

Princeton took a 2-0 lead over Harvard before an Alumni Day crowd of 2500 Saturday afternoon but could not maintain the initiative. Doug Davis and Neil Ulman of the second and third lines sent the Tigers out in front with a pair of markers less than 45 seconds apart at the eight-minute mark of the first round.

Third Period Decisive. This kind of "gray" (unexpected contributions from low-scoring lines) left the impression that a goal or two by the starting trio would give the Tigers the upset they sought. Harvard's first line, however, turned in such an outstanding defensive performance behind its own blue line that the McBride-Cook-Pell combat got off less shots than it has all season.

After outshooting the Crimson in the first round, Princeton was held to a total of 12 in the final two periods, none of which hit the cage. The Crimson fed the score before the first intermission, was held scoreless in the second peri-city, Providence and Middlebury all the more surprising. Cornell will be here Saturday at 2 in a contest that will end the Tigers' Baker Rink season. They'll be at Cambridge next Tuesday and at Hanover on March 3, with Dartmouth likely to wrap up its second straight title before the season ends.

BRACELEY SETS MARK

Breaks Own Record Again. For the second time this season, George Braceley broke the Princeton record in the 440-yard freestyle despite the fact that he was beaten. In the swimming meet against Pennsylvania last Wednesday, the Princeton junior was clocked in 4:48.6 while finishing second. The time lowered his previous standard of 4:50.1.

A double triumph marked his efforts at Cambridge in a losing cause against Harvard. The Crimson won, 65 to 30, but Braceley won the 220 in 2:14.3 and the 440 in 4:56.2. Princeton's unusually strong Irishman team remained unbeaten, toping Harvard's first-year squad, 56-39.

Yale's unbeaten varsity will swim in Dillon Pool Saturday at 4 (with the freshman meet between the two colleges set for 2:30). A fencing match between the two universities is scheduled for 2 o'clock in Dillon Gym, while the Tiger wrestlers will travel to New Haven hoping for the Big Three crown after a 22-8 victory over Harvard.

FORTUNES UNCHANGED

As PHS Loses 10th Straight. The Princeton High School quintet will end a court season it would just as soon forget against Hightstown, one of its two victims, on Friday. The other victim, Hammonton High School, vanquished the Little Tigers in a return contest and PHS, hoping to finish the campaign with a win, is determined not to let Hightstown do the same.

Against Lawrenceville last Wednesday, PHS looked bad not because the prep school five was good but because it was unable to take advantage of some sloppy ball-playing by the Larraries. At the end of the game, which it lost

64-51, PHS coach Tony Borzok said, "Even as bad as we are, it was a gift. It was a terrible ball game."

The affair was marred by poor ball handling by both teams and by wild and inaccurate passing. Particularly crippling to the losers was the unusually high number of times steps were called against them. In the last period alone, PHS must have been guilty of this violation at least eight times.

The home team outscored the Blue and White by a 2-1 ratio in the initial period to go ahead, 22-11. But, in the second quarter, mainly on the shooting of Jack Copeland and Jack Hawkins, PHS fought back to narrow the gap to 31-26 at the half.

Even as late as five minutes to go, when Willie Hill's bucket brought the score to 50-45, it was either team's ball game. Then, with steps being called time and again against its opponent, nullifying the Blue and White attack, Lawrenceville pulled away to ice the victory.

High scorer for the losers for the first time this year was Copeland with 17 points. He was especially accurate with his one-handed push shot from any angle. Copeland was followed by Hawkins with 12, who seems to be improving with each game.

HUN TAKES TWO

To Clinch Winning Season. Two victories in three days last week assured the Hun School basketball team of its first winning season in several years. The twin triumphs gave the Red and Black an 8-6 mark as it went into its mid-week contest with Pingry, last opponent on the schedule.

A 51-41 verdict was achieved over the Pennington School, two days after the Edgerstone quintet turned back Tower Hill, 61-57. Pennington, a team that Hun had defeated earlier this season by 29 points, again was no match for the visiting Red and Black five. Hun jumped to an early lead which it never relinquished and was in front 21-13 at the intermission. It was able to maintain that margin throughout an evenly-fought second half to win by 10 points.

Dave Savidge with 14 points and Jay Maynell and Captain Lou D'Ambrosio with a dozen each took scoring honors for the victors. Ron Kearns with 12 points was high for the losers and was the only other player to hit double figures.

In a preliminary contest, Hun's junior varsity squad eked out a thrilling 61-60 win over the Pennington Jayvees to capture its eighth win of the year. Jimmy Stewart with 23 points and Rob Kay with 16 were high for the winners, one of the best Jayvee teams to represent Hun in many seasons.

Hun Trips Tower Hill. In its last home game of the year, Hun notched its seventh win by beating Tower Hill, a strong quintet from Wilmington, Delaware. Hun thereby averted for a one-point defeat in overtime which the losers had inflicted last season.

As it has done in the past, Hun employed a full press from the start of the game to disconcert its opponent's attack. The Red and Black led from the beginning and enjoyed a 10-point edge at the half.

Instrumental in engineering the Hun victory was Jim Byer who had played most of the time this season as a member of the junior varsity. Starting his first varsity game, Byer sank seven of nine shots in the first half, scored 15 points (high for his team) and rebounded well.

D'Ambrosio chipped in with 13, while Savidge and Maynell did the bulk of the rebounding for Hun. Tommy Petrone intercepted a number of passes to stand out on defense.

CONTINENTALS TRIUMPH

In Exhibition Game. The Princeton Continentals trounced St. Anthony's of the Trenton CYO

League, 109-64, in an exhibition basketball game Sunday at St. Paul's Gymnasium. Next Sunday, the Continentals will play Immaculate Conception at 2 in the same gymnasium.

Ray Tamasi hit for 39 points and Tony Buccafuso added 29 more to pace the victors. High for the losers with 14 was Edward Burke.

ST. PAUL'S WINS SIXTH

In Edging St. Joe's, 23-23. St. Paul's won its sixth basketball game in seven starts last week by nipping St. Joe's by two points in a game in which the lead changed hands five times.

St. Paul's will play St. Mary's Wednesday night at Bordentown and will entertain it in a return match Sunday at 2 in St. Paul's Gymnasium. Coach for the St. Paul Cavaliers is Marty Lombardo.

(20th in a Series)

Meet Rabbi Krauss. He does not look like a Marine (he has a gentle, tranquil face), he does not act like a Marine (his manner is quiet and mildly humorous) and he certainly does not talk like a Marine. Aaron Krauss is, however, an ex-Marine and the explanation he gives for his demeanor is that "no real Marine ever looks like one."

Rabbi Aaron Krauss serves a Jewish Center congregation of about 500 persons, but this number is a mere shrug compared to the size of his Marine Corps "parish."

"I was the only Rabbi for Taiwan, including of course, Quemoy and Matsu, Hong Kong, Okinawa, the Philippines and everything in between," Rabbi Krauss explains. "For six months, I was chaplain in a hospital on Okinawa where only one percent of the patients belonged to the Jewish faith."

Rabbi Krauss joined the Navy, and then the 3rd Marine Division following his graduation from Jewish Theological Seminary in 1957. His two-year tour of duty ended last June and he accepted the call to Princeton in September, 1959.

"While I was in the Far East, I kept in touch with my congregation by flying from place to place," the Rabbi recalls. "Most of the planes I rode in were C-48's which had been discarded and turned over to the Chinese on Formosa.

"It was a standard joke that they were held together with scotch tape but this didn't seem to bother the pilots particularly—even if it did give the passengers some uneasy moments. We called these planes, 'the air-sick specials.'

"I remember one flight: one of the Chinese crew came back to where the passengers were and said—or rather, yelled, because those were noisy planes—"so sorry, we got to land in water." Sure enough, there was engine trouble of a very serious kind and that's just what the pilot was going to do. Fortunately, he made it to Ma-Kung, the chief island in the Pescadores, and we were spared a swim."

Rabbi Krauss remembers with pleasure the warmth and friendship of the Chinese and Japanese. "I didn't find any anti-Americanism," he says, "and I made many personal friends."

Time: The Present. The Marine Corps is, however, past history. For the present, the Rabbi is deeply involved in the affairs of the Jewish Center where he has the problems of guidance, teaching, preaching and spiritual leadership faced by all men in his position.

He has in addition the problems peculiar to this particular center. Most of the members of his congregation are in the 30-40 age group, and there are only two or three "elders," old people who can give a sense of continuity and stability to a religious organization, and who can do some of the church work which cannot be done by young couples burdened with family responsibilities.

He also has, to a certain extent, a divided congregation, most of whom are Conservative as Rabbi Krauss is, but many of whom are Reform. It is a highly intellectual congregation, as so many in Princeton are, with many members engaged in professional research and few engaged in business activities.

"We also have a lot of skeptics," Rabbi Krauss says, with a laugh, "because so many of our members are scientists."

Lay participation is important in Jewish Center services, the Rabbi feels, and he believes in starting such participation at an early age. He has formed a junior congregation of boys and girls 7-14. These young people organize themselves and conduct their own services after they have learned the ritual from Rabbi and teachers. There are about 190 children in the Center now and there will probably be over 200 next year, Rabbi Krauss believes. "I hope that activities like these LEARNING BY DOING: Aaron Krauss, rear, new Rabbi at the Princeton Jewish Center, has begun to teach the young men of the Center the proper way to conduct a religious service. will help to raise the tenor of Jewish life in Princeton," says Rabbi Krauss.

He also hopes to expand the social and cultural life of the Center, especially through its large number of young couples. He sometimes refers to the Center as "one young married group!"

Notes for a History. Off duty, the Rabbi pursues his study of American Jewish history and he has notes ready for a book on this subject which will begin with the early 20th century.

"I enjoy scholarship," he says, "and I got a healthy taste of it at Yeshiva when I was an undergraduate."

The young Rabbi also collects stamps, and his travels with the Navy and the Marine Corps added to his collection and to his interest in it, but there hasn't been much time for stamps lately.

At present, Rabbi Krauss lives in a semi-nomadic state while he waits for the completion of his new house on Harrison Street near the Center. He is unmarried.

FAIRS RAISE $10,421

For All Saints' Chapel. A total of $10,421 was raised through the 1958 and 1959 Christmas Fairs of Trinity Episcopal Church for the new All Saints' Chapel, it was announced this week. This included $5,034 from the 1959 fair, $4,962 from the 1958 fair, and a donation of $425 from the Woman's Auxiliary, which sponsored the fairs. Mrs. Robert J. Shaw was general chairman both years.

The executive board of the auxiliary has voted to give the entire amount raised to the All Saints' Building Fund, to be used to furnish the kitchen with china, silver, and kitchen utensils; provide the complete amount necessary for seating in the Chapel, and provide classroom furniture for the classroom areas in the Parish House. It was also decided not to hold a Christmas Fair this year, but to plan for another in 1961.

The Woman's Auxiliary has also announced sponsorship of a new project, volunteer aid at Merwick Home for the Aged on Bayard Lane. Volunteers will visit guests at Merwick, read to them and write letters for them, and will also help in arts and crafts instruction and piano playing. Mrs. Frank H. Boyd is in charge of the program for the auxiliary.

PHS LOSES ANOTHER

No Match Against Steinert. Six-foot, six-inch Bob Zaar, center for the Steinert basketball team, whom PHS coach Tony Borzok labeled "impossible to stop," proved to be too much for the Little Tigers to cope with Tuesday as he scored 30 points and grabbed off most of the rebounds. He led his teammates to their ninth win, a 77-42 shellacking of Princeton High. In the process, PHS suffered its 11th straight loss.

It was no contest from the start as Zaar camped under the basket and dropped in layup after layup. When he wasn't shooting, Zaar's teammates were hitting from the outside. The Spartans led at the half, 46-20. High scorer for the losers with ten points was Gil Fisher who has been moved up from the jayvees to the varsity.

"Building Your Own Home?"

The Princeton Manor Construction Co. will build from your ideas, your architect's plans, or from over 200 designs in our files — on your lot or our land. Locally owned and managed, the Princeton Manor Construction Co. is currently building twenty to twenty-five quality homes a year. Consult our list of building sites in the Princeton area. You may use your lot as all or part of the down payment on your new home. A few of our extra services are unusually favorable financing and free consultation with an interior decorator.

RENT FREE!!!

If you are making $10,000 a year or more.

If you now have offices on the third or fourth floor on Nassau Street and park your car on the Spring or Hulme parking lots, it would take you ten to 15 minutes from car to desk. Multiply this by the number of trips each way and compute your time loss per week — IT WILL STARTLE YOU.

At $10,000* per year, 40 hours per week your time is $5 per hr. .

Think of your secretary and your customer's convenience. How many clients have you lost because they can't park near your present office.

TIME IS MONEY.

Many of you could not only have free rent but money in the bank by moving to my new, modern, air-conditioned, ground floor, office units on Nassau Street with parking in front of your door.
